ANCC Readiness Test Frequently Asked Questions

General Information

Q: Whom should I contact with questions about ANCC's Readiness Tests?

A: Email anccreadinesstest@ana.org

Q: Who can take the Readiness Test?

A: Anyone who is considering applying for a certification, planning to retest for a certification, or wanting the experience of taking a test administered by Prometric. There are no eligibility requirements to take a Readiness Test.

Q: What is the difference between the ANCC Readiness Tests and Certification Preparation?

A: The ANCC Readiness Tests include questions developed for ANCC's certification exams. The tests are administered in the same timed, live-proctored testing environment as the actual certification exam, and upon completion, test takers receive valuable, diagnostic performance feedback.

Q: Does the Readiness Test have to be completed in one sitting?

A: Yes, the Readiness Test must be completed in one sitting. The test is administered in a timed, live-proctored environment.

Q: How many times can I take a Readiness Test?

A: You can repurchase and take the Readiness Test as many times as needed. However, the questions on the test will be the same.

Scheduling and Test Administration

Q: Can ANCC help me with scheduling my Readiness Test?

A: ANCC staff are unable to assist with scheduling your Readiness Test. Please visit prometric.com/anccr to schedule your exam. If you are unable to schedule via the link above, you may call the Prometric Registration and Scheduling line at 1.800.688.5805.

Q: I was able to schedule my Readiness Test at a Prometric testing center. How can I switch my appointment to a Live Remote Proctoring appointment?

A: You will need to cancel your existing appointment at the testing center and then schedule a different appointment for a Live Remote Proctoring (LRP) session.

Test Results

Q: When will I receive my score report for the Readiness Test?

A: Your score report will be sent within an hour to the email address you used when scheduling your appointment.

Q: How is the Readiness Test scored?

A: The score report for the Readiness Test provides the percentage of questions answered correctly from the total number of questions (percent score). The percentage score determines whether a test taker has passed the Readiness Test. In addition, the score report will provide the number of questions answered correctly in each domain, as well as the total number of questions in that domain.
